A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with over work. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble", by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, despondent, frequent headaches, pain or distress in "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, "all gone" or "risings" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more permanently than Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong.

The "Discovery" is non-secret, non-alcoholic, is a glyceric extract of native medicinal roots with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. Its ingredients are endorsed and extolled by the most eminent medical writers of the age and are recommended to cure the diseases for which it is advised.

Don't accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION.

JAMESTOWN EXPOSITION.

Jamestown Exposition, Va., July 15—That this is the time of year for people to seek the watering places and sea-side resorts of the country, to get away from the hot cities and to lose themselves from the business cares and worries of home, is evidenced by the greatly increased traveling population.

Owing to the fact that the Jamestown Exposition is the first celebration ever held in this county on deep water, a visit will combine the pleasures of the summer vacation, as well as an opportunity to take advantage of the educational and historic features of this great international fair.

The idea of going south in the summer may not appeal to the uninitiated, but to those who have enjoyed a summer in the South, it is well known that the watering places and sea side resorts of Virginia, by reason of not only their beautiful and varied scenery, but the ideal weather conditions that exist, are becoming the most popular resorts in the country.

And so, with the Jamestown Exposition, there exists a combination difficult to excel. Located on the historic waters of Hampton Roads, across which is continually wafted the bracing salt air from the broad Atlantic, the exposition with its six hundred acres on Sewell's point, one of the most attractive spots in the Old Dominion, affords all the requirements for either the pleasure seeker or for those looking for rest and quiet.

The exposition, which is within a twenty-four hour radius of forty millions of people, is connected with the north, south and west, by eight or ten railroads and as many steamship lines, affording pleasant and efficient transportation facilities, to and from the fair.

Just across the waters of Hampton Roads lies Old Point Comfort, Fort Monroe and the Hotel Chamberlin, where both arms of the service are seen daily on parade and featured in social life. Fort Monroe, with its grim walls and winding moat, aside from being the most important artillery station on the Atlantic coast, is one of the most picturesque places in the country. Virginia Beach, the "Atlantic City" of the south, is a short trolley ride from the Exposition Grounds, and where stretches for more than a hundred miles one of the most perfect beaches on the coast. These places together with many others, in and around Tidewater Virginia, compare favorably with any of the summer resorts of the north, and during the late hot spell that swept the country a comparison of temperature showed that the Jamestown Exposition and the shores of Hampton Roads recorded as low mercury if not lower than many of the watering places farther north. Indeed the climatic conditions of the sea-side resort of the Old Dominion, in the summer, are becoming as popular as the Florida and Gulf resorts in the winter.

THE TROUBLE IN ROANOKE.

The State Department yesterday received a telegram from acting Greek Consul Maximos, at New York, transmitting a report of the rioting at Roanoke Saturday night, involving an attack upon the Greek business places there and invoking the protection of the State Department.

The message was immediately transmitted by the State Department to Governor Swanson, at Richmond, with the request for a report on the subject. The Governor's reply reached the department at the closing hour and was of a most reassuring character. He expresses full confidence in the ability of the Roanoke municipal authorities to maintain order, and promises that, in any event, he himself will look after the safety of the Greeks in that city. He promises to make a detailed report to the State Department as soon as he can secure the information which he is now seeking.

A telegram was received at the Greek consulate in New York yesterday from Roanoke, signed by 150 Greeks, appealing for protection against a mob of rioters. The Greeks telegraphed that the Roanoke police were unable to cope with the situation and afford them protection from the rioters.

Governor Swanson yesterday communicated by long distance telephone with Mayor Joel L. Cutchin, of Roanoke, to inquire as to the present state of affairs in that city after Saturday night's rioting. Mayor Cutchin reported "all quiet."

None of the Greek restaurants in Roanoke that were wrecked by a mob Saturday night has reopened, and the proprietors of the various places appear to be in a state of uncertainty.

SILVER TOO CHEAP FOR FRISCO ELKS.

Carl Koening, a giant Elk, of San Francisco, who has been in Atlantic City two or three days, has been spending money with a lavish hand. He declines to handle silver in any way, and so do the companions with him. They are all interested in mines, etc., and to show their contempt for silver money of small variety, they toss it to crowds of small boys wherever they come upon them. They went into a candy store yesterday and bought a couple of boxes of salt-water taffy, amounting to 60 cents. One of the party handed the saleswoman a five-dollar gold piece and told her to keep the change. But the climax was reached when Koening got his big shoes shined. He handed the bootblack a dollar bill, refused the change, and, by way of compliment, took away the Italian's breath by presenting him with a shiny ten-dollar gold piece. Eleven dollars is the highest price ever paid at Atlantic City for a shine, but Koening is an Elk.

Alexandria Gazette
SIC SEMPER TYRANNIS
AND VIRGINIA ADVERTISER

TUESDAY EVENING, JULY 16, 1907.

THERE has been another very serious explosion on one of the big U. S. war vessels. While the battleship Georgia was at target practice the charge for an 8-inch gun was ignited in a turret, and many officers and men were killed and injured. The Missouri, the Massachusetts and the Iowa have suffered from premature explosions or the burning of charges in the turrets, and each accident leads to some additional safeguard, but the handling of smokeless powder in breech-loading guns in the very narrow quarters of the turrets continues to be very hazardous. There is a apprehension among naval men concerning the frequency with which serious accidents have occurred in the new navy. Since the Spanish-American war there have been an exceeding large number of accidents due to explosions in gun turrets, and with the exception of the boiler explosion on the Bennington the greatest loss of life has been due to gun-turret explosions or the ignition of powder in such turrets. During the 33 years covering the period from the close of the civil war in 1865 to the destruction of the old battleship Maine in 1898 there were 29 accidents in the navy, including the total loss of 22 ships. On January 18, 1903, a charge of powder exploded in an eight-inch gun on the Massachusetts, killing nine enlisted men. On April 9, 1903, a twelve-inch gun on the Iowa exploded during target practice, killing three enlisted men and wounding four others. On April 13, 1904, a terrible accident occurred on the Missouri, when by a "flareback" an explosion was caused which resulted in the death of five officers and twenty-six enlisted men. On April 13, 1905, an explosion in one of the six-inch turrets of the Kearsarge severely wounded three men.

A SPECIAL committee of the American Medical Association, which was appointed three years ago to investigate the instruction and standards of the various medical colleges in the United States, has now submitted its report, which condemns about one-half of all the so-called medical colleges in the land, and appeals to the public to aid in remedying this evil. Among the members of the committee are Drs. Bevan, of Chicago; Frazier of Pennsylvania University; Witherspoon, of Nashville; Councilman, of Boston; Vaughan, of Ann Arbor, and Colwell, of Chicago. The committee finds that there are too many of these schools in which preliminary education is insufficient, and in which the course of instruction is inadequate and the lack of trained teachers evident. It appears that there are now in this country 160 medical schools, or as many as in all Europe. The report holds that the great advance in the sciences in recent years has made necessary a much broader and more thorough course of medical education than formerly prevailed. It insists that a four-year high school course is required; a year of physics, chemistry and biology, two years of practical laboratory work, two years of clinical work in hospitals, and a year as interne in a hospital. To provide adequate equipment of medical schools they must be endowed. It is found that many of the medical schools are still conducted solely for profit, which is contrary to the spirit of true attainment.

THE ATTEMPT to murder the President of France, it is stated, was made by a person of weak and perhaps slightly deranged mind, who had been wrought upon by the intemperate utterances of a part of the press and of socialist and anti-militarist agitators. That is not only possible, but also quite probable. But even under that explanation the incident is not to be regarded as insignificant, as the experience of this country shows. In the United States a President was not only fired at but actually killed by a wretch whose mind, perhaps naturally weak or wayward, had been perverted and incited to the deed by the utterances of a licentious press and of socialist and anarchist agitators. Fallieres was more fortunate than McKinley. That was the chief difference between the cases. They both involved the same abhorrent passions and practices. They both point the same lesson, of the evil results which may proceed from wicked or merely reckless suggestions, even beyond their makers' intent.

IT IS noted in commercial and financial circles that the money market has at no time shown the least trace of apprehension of war with Japan. Wall street is very sensitive to wars and rumors of wars, and its indifference to the chatter of the jingoes shows that it recognized little bellicose sentiment on either side of the ocean.

THE OPINION is growing in Washington that the purpose of sending a war fleet to the Pacific is to arouse the Pacific Coast in favor of the administration and incidentally securing delegates from those States for Taft.

From Washington.

[Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.]

Washington, July 16.

Naval officials here are not only shocked but bewildered by the terrible disaster on the battleship Georgia, which so far has resulted in eight deaths and the serious injury of 13 more. They are utterly puzzled as to how the accident could have occurred. They thought that profiting by previous terrible lessons of the kind, they had taken every possible precaution to prevent such disasters in the future. They accept with reserve the suggestion that a spark from some other gun or from a smoke stack floated into the gun port of the Georgia, and, falling upon the big 100-pound canvas bag of powder which was about to be inserted into the 8-inch gun, caused its ignition and explosion. Still, in the absence of other theories, they are not prepared to say that this was not the cause. The officials board of inquiry will be hampered by the fact that all those nearest the bag of powder when it took fire are dead. Scarcely one of the men in the turret will be in condition to give evidence for several days, and those who can testify probably can give no definite account of what happened.

Midshipman Kimball tells the following story: "There were just 22 of us in the turret when it happened. Lieutenant Goodrich was in command of the aft turret, and I was his subordinate in charge of the superimposed turret where the accident occurred. The projectile had just been rammed into the port eight-inch gun, and the charge of powder had come up from the magazine in the carriage. It was contained in two bags, holding 52 pounds each. Seaman Thomas had lifted one bag from the carriage and was about to pass it under the electric ram to the loader. The other charge lay on the carriage. At that moment I was facing aft, close to the wall of the turret. There was a sudden hissing, a puff and a draft of air against by back. Instantly I held my breath, ducked and drew my cap over my face. Though I suppose it was but a few seconds, it seemed an age that the flames hissed around me, and I felt the heat blistering my body. It was awful. I could hear the men screaming and gasping for breath in the suffocating gases released by the burning powder. Then I turned and tried to put out the fire in the clothes of the men piled around me in heaps. They lay around four or five on top of one another. It was nothing to do, anyone would have done the same. Oh, my injuries don't amount to much; just a few burns on my hand. Midshipman Goldthwaite stood just aft of the ordnance carriage and it's probably why he was killed. Midshipman Cruse was by the other gun and escaped with serious burns. Gun pointer Schlapp was on the port side of the port gun. He was able to put his head out of the opening for the sighting telescope and that probably saved his life."

Is there serious friction between high officials of the Navy Department? Are great naval movements planned without consultation between the heads of the bureaus through which their execution must depend? These are some of the pertinent questions being asked today, prompted by the astonishing discovery that no order, verbal or written, referring to the movement of a fleet of warships, great or small, to the Pacific, has been received by any official of the Navy Department now in the city. The records of the department do not show that such an order has been issued to any official of the department now absent. This anomalous situation is presented: Navy Department officials and naval officers only know the public announcement of the President and Secretary of the Navy, that the greatest fleet of American warships ever before assembled is to mobolize in the fall for a journey for the Pacific coast and are "getting their houses in order" to comply with directions which they expect will reach them before the mobolization of the fleet. Naval officers are wondering whether President Roosevelt expressed to Secretary Metcalf personally his desire for such a naval movement, and the latter forgot to inform acting Secretary Newberry of the fact before he left for San Francisco to make his startling announcement on July 4, or whether there was an intentional slight administered. Although officials of the department decline to discuss the subject for publication, for obvious reasons, they make no attempt to conceal their surprise of recent methods of administering department policies. They predict a split in the department shortly. Secretary Metcalf's friends, on the other hand, scoff at the suggestion that he could be guilty of any discourtesies to his immediate subordinates.

The only thing that stands in the way of criminal and civil prosecution of E. H. Harriman by the government is the possibility of President Roosevelt abandoning his trust policy. If the railway magnate can find a grain of comfort in that remote possibility, says a high authority here, he is welcome to it. The fact that the Interstate Commerce Commissioners have left the city on their vacations, is of no significance in this connection. They have completed a report that they say presents an abundant array of facts and figures to show that Harriman has been for years running counter to the anti-trust law. Having designated Harriman's offenses in plain terms, they have been unable to discover any basis for the criticism that they have not gone out of their way to add unnecessary denunciation. The criticism of the commissioners has been the means of confirming the belief that they sent to the department of justice much data on Harriman that was not made public. Inasmuch as it was essential in the framing of papers for prosecution, and its publication might have partially defeated the desires of the law officers of the government, the commissioners are resting serene in the contemplation of the work well done. It is understood upon excellent authority that papers are being prepared for the prosecution of Harriman criminally and civilly, and it is further said that Harriman's trusted agents have so informed him of that fact.

CHESTERMAN AND KOINER AT ODDS.

There is friction in the Department of Agriculture in Richmond, due to the success which has attended the efforts of Commissioner George W. Koiner to forward the movement to get farm laborers to come to this country. During the absence of Mr. Koiner, E. B. Chesterman, the chief clerk, was placed in charge of the office, and he carried out the orders of the board. Some troubles occurred between Koiner and Chesterman, and it is known that Koiner intended to remove Chesterman from office. While Mr. Koiner was last in Europe steps were taken to reorganize the department, especially when it became known that Chesterman was to be displaced. The executive committee met last Wednesday at the Inside Inn, Norfolk, and framed a plan of reorganization, which cared for Chesterman and elected him to the office of secretary-treasurer of the board. The statutes fix Koiner's duties, and he was empowered to choose his clerk The action of the board makes Chesterman the peer of Koiner. Hereafter all the reports are to be from the Board of Agriculture and not from the Department of Agriculture. The board is said to have expressed an opinion that Koiner had more work than he could do, and it is understood to have been the desire to relieve him of most of the work and to have some of the duties performed by a man who will be directly responsible to the board.

EXPLOSION ON BATTLESHIP.

With seven of her officers and crew dead, and 14 others either dying or suffering from terrible burns received in an explosion of powder in the after superimposed turret yesterday, the battleship Georgia steamed slowly up Boston harbor from the target practice grounds in Cape Cod Bay later in the day and landed the dead and injured men at the Charlestown navy yard. With the arrival of the Georgia there became known the details of the most terrible naval catastrophe that has ever taken place along the coast of New England.

The accident occurred shortly before noon yesterday, while the Georgia's crew were at target practice off Barnstable, in Cape Cod Bay. In some manner as yet unexplained two bags of powder became ignited, and in the terrific flash that followed, the entire turret crew, consisting of three officers and 18 men, were enveloped in fire and received horrible burns, one officer and five men dying before the ship reached port.

The explosion occurred in the after superimposed turret, where the men, under command of Lieut. Casper Goodrich, son of Rear Admiral Goodrich, commandant of the New York navy yard, and Midshipmen Faulkner Goldthwaite and John T. Cruse, were operating the eight inch guns.

The guns in the forward turrets had finished eight rounds of practice, and the guns of the after turret had fired one round. Two cases, as the big 100 pound bags of powder are called, had just been sent up through the ammunition hoist, and were in the arms of the loader, whose name was withheld by the ship's officers.

The loader stood at the breech of one of the eight-inch guns, all ready to insert the charge. At this instant the turret was seen to be smoky, and two men who stood near the loader saw a black spot on the bag, indicating that the charge had ignited and was smouldering. The loader discovered the spot at the same instant and threw himself forward on his face, at the same time shouting a warning to his turret mates. The other men who had seen the spot were Eich and Hansell, and they also threw themselves on the floor of the turret.

Before the other men in the turret could understand what caused the loader's cry of warning there was a blinding flash as the burning powder exploded. Flames, smoke and nauseous gases filled the little superstructure, in which more than a score of men were confined. As the powder was not confined, there was no report, nor did the vessel suffer any injury, but every nook and cranny of the turret was filled with flame.

The loader, who was, of course, nearest the powder, was terribly burned, as was every man in the turret, with the exception of two, who, although scorched escaped with injuries much less severe than the others.

Blinded by the smoke and flame, choked by the acrid, penetrating gaseous fumes and maddened with pain, the men screamed in agony. Some staggered blindly up the ladder to the hatchway in the top of the turret, while others crept along the turret floor, begging piteously for assistance.

Lieutenant Goodrich and seaman Maleck became crazed, staggered up the iron ladder to the top of the turret, and threw themselves headlong into the sea, in a despairing effort to choose a death by drowning in preference to death by slow fire.

When the smoke of the burning powder had cleared away the shipmates of the unfortunate men rushed to their assistance, and tenderly the suffering sailors were lifted out of the fire-blackened turret and quickly conveyed to the ship's hospital, where their burns were dressed by the surgeons.

In the meantime Lieutenant Goodrich and seaman Maleck had been rescued by a launch that was returning from an inspection of the target.

The surgical staff of the Georgia was soon reinforced by the surgeons of the other vessels in the fleet, who had been informed of the accident and summoned to the scene.

ACCIDENT ON THE SOUTHERN.

As the result of the derailment of three cars of a north-bound passenger train on the Southern Railway at Jamestown, N. C., near Greensboro, yesterday, 11 persons, mostly employes of the railroad, were injured. According to an official statement issued by the company in Washington last night, the derailment was due to "tracks buckling under the dining car." A dispatch last night says the wreck was caused by a misunderstanding of orders on the part of W. O. Craig, operator in charge of the block house at Carnegie. He let the engine into the block with the understanding that the fast train was an hour and 50 minutes late, when it was only an hour late. Because of threats of lynching, Craig abandoned his post and fled and two other operators were tried before one was found who would be willing to remain in the block house during the night. Craig returned later and will face the responsibility for his mistake. Among the injured are: I. L. Bowman, white, flagman on train 30, aged about 40 years, of Alexandria, Va., bad cut over left eye and right leg slightly sprained; D. L. Balthis, conductor of train 30, of Washington, bad scalp wound and deep cut under right shoulder-blade; F. C. Taylor, Pullman conductor, of Jacksonville, Fla., knee sprained; F. E. Berry, dining-car conductor, of Charlotte, N. C., right eye cut and bruised; W. L. Pierce, assistant superintendent of the Southern Railway, of Strasburg, Va., back wrenched and ankle sprained; Engineer Bush and Fireman Bryson seriously injured. The train was running about 35 miles an hour, when the dining car, a Pullman car and a Mobile and Ohio railroad car were derailed.

Spy in the Camp.

New York, July 16.—The discovery of a spy in the very inner circle of their organization has made the telegraphers of New York city almost eager for a strike. It is feared that more spies may be in the ranks and it is said that several men are under suspicion.

"We are ready," said Secretary McInery today. "Everything depends upon San Francisco and no move will be made until we get orders from President Small.

Our grievances in New York are important and we have a great complaint because the nine employes who, we claim, were discharged for unionism, have not been given a hearing.

"However, it is not probable a strike will be called in New York independent of the Frisco case."

W. E. Demarest was forced to resign after he was charged with being a spy. Secretary McInery and Daniel L. Russell set a trap for Demarest by telling him that the Western Union cable in North river would be cut and asking his aid. No one else was taken into their secret. Then McInery and Russell went to the scene to watch developments. They found on the ground ahead of them a small army of detectives and a cable ship. Then Demarest was read out of the union. His exposure caused a grear sensation, as he had been considered most trustworthy.

Saw Father Die in Vision.

New York, July 16.—The death of his father, 3000 miles away in England, two weeks ago, was depicted in faithful detail to Rev. Henry Rollings, a medical missionary student in the New York Homœopathic Medical College. A letter since has corroborated the vision. Several years ago Dr. Rollins was curate of St. Andrew's parish, of Rochester, of which the Rev. Algernon S. Crapsey, subsequently convicted of heresy, was the rector. Dr. Rollings said yesterday: "My father was Geoffrey Rollings, of Bedfordshire, England, and between us the tie of consanguinity was strong. We kept in constant communication by mail, and my father knew of all my trials and all my triumphs—if I had any. After a particularly arduous day I threw myself on a bed exhausted. I fell into a slumber, from which I was awakened by a vivid picture. I sat up in the bed and saw my father as distinctly as I ever saw him in my life, and heard him call out 'My boy, my boy, I am dying.

"The picture that was presented to me was that of my father lying in bed. I saw all my relatives there except my sister, and wondered why she was absent at such a moment. A letter from home stated that my sister's absence was due to illness."

The Explosion on the Georgia.

Boston, July 16.—More names are yet to be added to the list of dead from yesterday's explosion on the battleship Georgia.

Midshipman James T. Cruse and Edward J. Walsh are already dying. It is a question whether Cruse can survive until the arrival of his father, Major Thomas Cruse, who is hurrying to his son's bedside from Omaha, Neb.

Several of the others will have hard fights for life and the surgeons fear all of them will not win. The six who succumbed last night died practically from shock. The wounded who survived until today have passed that danger, but the fearful nature of their burns and the fact that all inhaled both the flames and the noxinous gases that filled the turret after the blast gives the doctors the gravest concern.

Nurses Threaten to Strike.

New York, July 16.—Bellevue Hospital nurses must have more substantial meals, they say, or they will strike. Of the quality of the food they dont complain. They only say there's too little of it. The mutineers are students in the training school connected with the hospital. They rebelled last night when midnight rations were served, immediately following their 6:30 dinner. Night supervising nurse Jessica Vicant brought them to time by threatening them with dismissal. The nurses took the lunches to the wards, but several of them refused to eat. When their duties were completed today they held a meeting and resolved to stand by their colors even in the face of discharge. Thirty-five young women will join the strike if the struggle reaches the point of a walkout.

Water Hunt Strikes Coal.

Pottsville, Pa., July 16.—A sensation has been caused in mining circles by the accidental striking of a big vein of coal by the Minersville Water Company at its new storage dam near Heckschensville.

The coal is believed to be in the Lykens Valley vein, which would make the discovery worth millions, as this is the most valuable red-ash coal in the market. The Pennsylvania Company spent a large amount of money trying to locate this vein, but never succeeded.

Duke, millionaire head of the American Tobacco Company, it is stated that Duke's marriage with Mrs. Inman, the Georgia beauty, will occur within a few days. The former Mrs. Duke also announced that she is now being reconciled to her husband's coming marriage and will throw no more legal obstacles in his way, as she has been doing in trying to open up the suit whereby he secured his divorce. It has been asserted that Duke recently made a settlement of approximately half a million dollars on the former wife, which was largely responsible for her changed attitude toward the coming wedding.

Gen. Alikanoff Assassinated.

Alexandropol, Russia, July 16.—Paying the penalty for atrocities committed in putting down disorders in Russia, Gen. Alikanoff, former Governor of Tiflis, was assassinated early today by terrorists who threw bombs at the carriage in which he was riding. Mme. Glieboff, wife of Gen. Glieboff, who was in the carriage and the coachman driving them, were also killed. Gen. Alikanoff's son and Mme. Glieboff's daughter escaped with serious injuries.

Alikanoff, nicknamed the "Wild-beast," and officially known as the "Pacifier" of Kutais province, was the most hated man in the province. The attack is credited as a fresh terrorist outbreak. Fears have been aroused that outrages will follow in other cities.

Two bombs were thrown. The first demolished the carriage and the horses. The second struck between the general and the woman. Both were blown to pieces. The street was practically deserted at the time and the terrorists had little difficulty in escaping. In May of last year at Borjam Alikanoff was seriously injured by a bomb. Cossacks fired on the crowd that gathered and set fire to buildings in which they retreated. Hundreds were killed or injured.

Alikanoff incurred the emnity of the revolutionists by his severity in repressing uprisings in Kutais province in 1905. Hundreds of persons were killed by the Cossacks he sent through the region while the fertile valley was almost laid in waist.

Sailors Fight.

Brest, France, July 16.—A fist fight was the result of an attempt of sailors from the visiting American warships Tennessee and Washington and French soldiers to fraternize. The melee was finally broken up by the police who chased the sailors to their wharf. Three soldiers from the Tennessee and a corporal and two private of the Nineteenth infantry were the participants. The party enjoyed dinner together and the fight followed in the street outside a cafe.

According to the soldiers the visiting jackies invited them to dinner, but could not pay. So the corporal had to forfeit his watch and all his spare cash to satisfy the proprietor. This started the fight.

Roosevelt, Bryan and Hearst.

Cleveland, O., July 16.—Norman E. Mack, editor of the Buffalo Times and New York's democratic committeeman, sees Roosevelt, Bryan and Hearst fighting it out for the presidency. In an interview while visiting here Mack said: "I am of the opinion that Roosevelt and Bryan will be the respective presidential candidates of the two dominant parties. The pressure will be so great that Roosevelt will not have anything to say." If Roosevelt is not nominated, Mack, Taft or Hughes will be. He continues: "The general impression in New York State is that Hearst is going to reorganize the independence league as its leader and he will be its candidate for President."

The Haywood Trial.

Boise, Idaho, July 16.—The Haywood prosecution is still putting in testimony today in support of Harry Orchard's story of alleged violence by the Western Federation of Miners. The evidence given by the defense's witnesses in an effort to break down the Orchard version is being taken up bit by bit, that every item of his confession may be bolstered by corroboration from other witnesses. Orchard himself put in but thirty minutes on the stand yesterday afternoon. He admitted that his uncle, Peter McKenney, hanged himself while insane, but denied having heard that any other member of his family was ever mentally unbalanced.

With the fall of Judge Melvin's gavel this morning the new constitution adopted at Denver went into effect. It is copied after the federal form of government with a body known as the form in similiarity to the United States Supreme Court. Five members will constitute this body. THE W., A. & F. C. RAILWAY.

The necessity of reforms in the equipment and management of the Washington, Arlington and Falls Church Railway was yesterday urged upon Commissioner Henry C. Stuart, of the Virginia State Corporation Commission, by a committee representing residents along the line of the railway.

Commissioner Stuart went to Washington yesterday for the purpose of making an inspection of the road, including the methods, facilities, equipment, trackage, and conditions near the scene of the recent wreck at Clarendon, resulting in one death and about thirty other casualties. He was accompanied by Commonwealths Attorney Mackey, R. O. L Moncure, representing the commuters' interests, Superintendent Garrett, of the road, and others. Almost the entire length of the road was traversed.

After the tour of inspection, Commissioner Stuart appointed Crandall Mackey, Frank T. Lyon and R. O. L. Moncure a committee to draft recommendations of any changes that should be put into effect, in addition to those specified by the recent order of the commission. These recommendations were drawn up and given to the commissioner before he left the city last night for Richmond.

The committee asks that the route to Rosslyn be supplied with large double truck cars, equipped with most modern improvements, and, in view of the sharp and heavy grades, with air and emergency brakes; that, if a through schedule to Rosslyn is not put into effect, double truck cars shall run between Rosslyn and Clarendon on a fifteen minute schedule, and not held exceeding five minutes waiting for a connection; that red and white semaphores and lights be maintained at switches, except where double tracking is provided.

The commission is urged to compel the double tracking of the road between Falls Church, the Aqueduct Bridge, and Arlington. The committee recommends that the road be given the following time limit to accomplish the double track improvement: From Clarendon to Veitchs Summit, December 31, 1907; between Veitchs Summit, West Falls Church, Clarendon, and Rosslyn, July 1, 1908, and between Arlington Junction and Clarendon, December 31, 1908.

Other recommendations are for the better accomodation and safety of the traveling public. The commisaion is also advised that the road has failed to comply with its order by failing to supply sufficient equipment during the rush morning and afternoon hours. The overcrowded condition of the cars at these hours and inadequate schedules are pointed out as needing immediate remedy.

Commissioner Stuart declared last night that he had notified the attorneys for the road to be present at the commission's hearing in September, when the question whether the commission's orders have been complied with will be considered.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

STRIKE DECLARED.

Washington Union No. 2, of the International Bricklayers' and Stonemasons' Union, voted at its meeting last night to declare a strike on every building on which non-union bricklayers or stonemasons were employed, and to declare a strike in the stoneyard of every dealer supplying stone for any building on which non-union men are employed.

A delegation from the Alexandria Trades Council and Division No. 465, of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes, asked the indorsement of their action in placing the Washington, Alexandria and Mount Vernon road on the unfair list until such time as it will reinstated all its employes discharged for j oing the union. This met with favor, and a motion was made looking to its immediate adoption, but the matter was finally referred to a committee with instructions to report not later than the next meeting.

STEAMER BURNED.

The old excursion steamer Samuel J. Pentz, lying off Giesboro Point, a short distance north of this city, was burned to the water's edge last night about 11 o'clock. It is said that the fire was of incendiary origin. About three years ago the Pentz was retired the machinery and other serviceable equipment sold at auction, and the hull anchored off Giesboro Point, where it remained until destroyed last night. Recently, however, the old steamer was sold to Joe Heath as junk. During the past month Heath, it is said, stripped the steamer of everything of value. The Pentz was built at Greenpoint, N. Y., in 1859, and for a long time ran between Baltimore and river landings. She was at times run on the otd mail route between Washington and Aquia creek, but during late years had been used as a Potomac excursion boat.

SPANKED BACK TO LIFE.

Ten-year-old Willie Scott, of Philadelphia, was saved from drowning only to get a spanking after he had ventured too far into the surf Sunday afternoon, at Atlantic City. Willie and another lad were paddling in the shallow water along the beach for a short time; but becoming more venturesome started out to deep water. Willie's mother called to the boys to come back, but they paid no heed and kept on until they were caught by the current and swept into a deep hole. Lifeguards who heard the children scream reached them with a boat in time to save their lives. Both boys were half conscious when brought ashore. Willie's companion was revived by "first aid" treatment administered by lifeguards, but Willie was not so fortunate. Grasping the youngster Mrs. Scott reached for a handy piece of driftwood and laying him across her knees administered a "treatment" that brought the boy back to consciousness in record-time.

The Doctor Away from Home when Most Needed.

People are often very much disappointed to find that their family physician is away from home when they most need his services. Diseases like cramp colic and cholera morbus require prompt treatment, and have in many instances proven fatal before medicine could be procured or a physician summoned. The right way is to keep at hand a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Dirrahoea Remedy. No physician can prescribe a better medicine for these diseases. By having it in the house you escape much pain and suffering and all risk. Buy it now; it may save life. For sale by W. F. Creighton & Co. and Gibson & Timberman.

Cured of Lung Trouble.

"It is now eleven years since I had a narrow escape from consumption," writes C. O. Floyd, a leading business man of Kershaw, S. C. "I had run down in weight to 135 pounds, and coughing was constant, both by day and by night. Finally I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and continued this for about six months, when my cough and lung trouble were entirely gone and I was restored to my normal weight, 170 pounds." Thousands of persons are healed every year. Guaranteed at E. S. Leadbeater & Son's drug store.

MONKS SUE FOR CHARTREUSE

Since the monks of the Grande Chartreuse were expelled from France they have established at Tarragona, Spain, their industry, the manufacture of the famous liqueurs—the green and yellow chartreuse —and are now bringing suit in the English Courts to restrain the French goverment from selling in Great Britain and the British colonies and dependencies the liqueur that is now being made in the old confiscated monastry. The action is very like one that might be brought under the pure food law, or at least the law of trade-mark in the United States. It is a curious outcome of the Church and State controversy in France, much as if the United States were to take over the manufacture of some whisky without the consent of whoever invented it.

I will mail you free, to prove merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my Book on either Dyspepsia, The Heart, or The Kidneys. Trouble of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys, are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—means Stomach weakness, always. And the Heart, and Kidneys, as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves." Also for bloating, billousness, bad breath or complexion, use Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write me today for sample and free Book. Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. The Restorative sold by E. S. Leadbeater & Sons.
